The stainless steel flame spreader screen is an indispensable complement in every professional kitchen that seeks the optimization and performance of every resource. With a diameter of 25 cm, this utensil is designed to amplify the cooking capacity of your fire, distributing the heat more evenly and widely. This means having more precise control over cooking, allowing you to obtain perfect dishes in shorter times. Made entirely of stainless steel, it guarantees decidedly superior resistance to high temperatures, maintaining its performance and conditions unchanged over time. Stainless steel, known for its countless qualities, does not alter flavors and respects the authenticity of foods, is easy to maintain and, moreover, gives a touch of elegance suitable for any type of cuisine. Thinking about the chaos that can reign in a kitchen during the
