SOLUZIONI FOODSERVICE

The porcelain oven dishes for professional use are produced with a mixture containing top quality quartz and kaolin.

The manufacturing process of these products includes computerized pressing, manual finishing and firings that reach up to 1300°C in which the mixture is cooked together with the vitrification. (hence precisely single-fired)

These particular production peculiarities give the oven dishes great resistance to thermal shock.

For this reason they are suitable both for cooking in the oven and for storing food in the freezer; as well as being resistant in the dishwasher.

Any imperfections present certify the manual manufacturing technique.

High quality made in Italy.
