SOLUZIONI FOODSERVICE

The porcelain baking dishes for professional use are produced with a mixture containing top quality quartz and kaolin.

The manufacturing process of these products includes computerized pressing, manual finishing and firings that reach up to 1300°C in which the mixture is fired together with the vitrification. (hence monocottura)

These particular production features give the baking dishes great resistance to thermal shock.

For this reason, they are suitable for both oven cooking and for storing food in the freezer; in addition to being dishwasher safe.

Any imperfections present certify the manual manufacturing technique.

High quality made in Italy.
